Section Definitions

1. Real-time: Live data about visitors on your site currently
2. Audience: Gives detailed information about your website visitors including demographics, geographic location, interests, technology
3. Acquisition: Shows how your visitors are arriving to your site. It gives you a breakdown (by channel) of how visitors are getting to your site
4. Behavior: Shows you how visitors are interacting with your site
5. Conversions: Provides conversion data for your various business goals and activities

Here is good primer on the different sections of Google Analytics and what kind of data you can retrieve from the different sections: https://semperplugins.com/important-sections-of-google-analytics-explained/

Viewing Pre-canned Google Data Reports

Login to Google analytics following the procedure above.

Go to the pre-made Google Analytics Summary Report for quick access to data: Franklin College Departmental Executive Summary Report

You can change the date time frame to look at data from different periods. Click the Date selector. See below
Then choose your date range (see below)
