Gradescope

Overview

Gradescope is an online grading tool that is used to grade assignments and tests. This article will cover license costs, how to request licenses, and how to access Gradescope help documentation.

- License Costs
- Requesting Gradescope Licenses

License Costs

The cost for Gradescope is $4 per student enrolled per course section, which is billed and renewed annually.

Requesting Gradescope Licenses

Departments should request licenses through the STF Base Allocation process. Requests are due by April 1 and funding notifications are typically returned to departments by August 1. Costs not covered by STF Base Allocation funds will be charged to departments in December.

When submitting requests, departments should estimate their annual usage for the current calendar year for budgeting purposes when submitting requests. When calculating anticipated usage, be sure to count enrollment for each course section (not headcount). For example, if a course has both a lecture and lab using Gradescope, students are counted twice – once in each course section.

Gradescope Help

You can access help documentation directly from Gradescope.

- Online help: https://help.gradescope.com/
- Getting Started: https://www.gradescope.com/get_started

For licensing questions, please contact the Franklin OIT Helpdesk.